

MOTHER OF GIRL WHIPS CHINAMAN

Mrs. Margaret Brennan, Whose Daughter Was Found in a Laundry, Grabs Mongolian by Throat in Court.

SCRATCHES HIM UNTIL SHE IS DRAGGED AWAY.

He Happened Not to Have Been a Prisoner, but Six Chinamen Were Held in $5,000 Bail Each.

Screaming yesterday and threatening the death of a Chinaman in the Gates Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, today, Mrs. Margaret Brennan rushed at the man, grabbed him by the throat and beat him to the floor. She is the mother of one of the two girls who were arrested yesterday, with several Brooklyn Chinese laundrymen, on charges preferred by two young women.

In a moment the court-room was in an uproar, but despite the efforts of the bystanders Mrs. Brennan clung to the Chinaman's neck. She was finally torn away by Policeman Gallagher, who dragged her out of the court. The Chinaman was more scared than hurt, though his neck showed some scratch wounds.

There was a large crowd in the courtroom to see what disposition would be made of the four laundrymen and the two white girls. In the prison pen were the Chinamen, calmly awaiting the action of the court. Mrs. Brennan, the mother of Mamie, fourteen years old, was inside the railing waiting with a friend for the beginning of the trial.

Long patience, she suddenly jumped up and made a wild leap at a Chinaman who was not one of the prisoners, but a friend there under arrest. "Kill him, she said, "Kill him. He has defamed my daughter."

The skin of Tom Jung—for that is his name—turned white, and he was so frightened at this onslaught of the woman that he offered only a feeble resistance.

Four More Arrests. That was the first sensational incident of what was a day of sensations in the courtroom. Mrs. Brennan, who had been arrested and the Chinese laundrymen of Guyver street Heights district and other prisoners of Brooklyn. Four more Chinamen were brought in today. They are Charles Woh, forty years old, of No. 138 Fulton street; Tom Yon, twenty-eight years old, and John Tum, twenty-five, of the same address, and Tony Jim, of No. 106 Rockaway avenue.

These, with the two arrested yesterday, made six arrangements before Magistrate Furloog. They were each held on two charges in $5,000 bail. The police are still canvassing the city, and it is their intention to round up every Chinaman on whom suspicion rests.

Varrants have been issued for a married woman, another girl and several additional Chinamen, all of whom were in a plot for the luring of young girls. The two girls under arrest are Mamie Brennan and Lizzie Kane. The Kane girl has been sent to the House of the Good Shepherd and the Brennan girl to the Children's Society pending the investigation.

Many complaints have been made to Capt. Buchanan by the mothers of young girls living in the section of Brooklyn mentioned that the Chinese were in the habit of inviting young girls to their laundries. Policeman McGruher, keeping a watch on Tom Hui's place, No. 44 Summer avenue, saw the Kane girl and her companion enter and soon afterwards the door was locked. Breaking into the place he secured positive evidence, he says, against the Chinamen.

When questioned the girls admitted that they had received as much as $10 a day from the laundrymen.

Sympathy for the Prisoners. When the Chinamen were placed under arrest last night a number of stylishly dressed women appeared at the Gates avenue police station and wept bitterly. They said they were the teachers of the prisoners. Some gave their names as attaches of the Chinese mission and insisted that the Chinese were more sinners than sinners.

One of the missionaries gave the name of Livingston. Later a Mr. Warner called on the Chinese and he brought in his wife and a lady friend. Two women from the Chinese mission arrived with coffee, rolls and cake. Three others came with flowers and fruit for the prisoners.

BOY'S BODY FOUND.

It Was Washed Ashore at Casino Beach. The body of an unidentified boy about twelve years old was washed ashore at Casino Beach, Astoria, L. I., today.

He had dark complexion and hair and wore a mixed suit, red and white shirt, black stockings, white lace shoes. The body had evidently been in the water a long time, as it was badly decomposed.

NEW CARS ORDERED.

One thousand sheathed passenger coaches have been ordered by the New Haven Railroad. The coaches cost about $4,500 each, making a total expenditure for the whole of $4,500,000. The Mexican Central has ordered sixty-eight large locomotives, which are to cost $1,000,000. The Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Railroad has advertised for bids for 1,000 freight cars. These orders do not indicate that the railroad managers believe that the end of the country's prosperity has been reached.

MEXICO OPEN TO CHINESE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 2.—The China Commercial Steamship Company, operating steamers to this port, has won its fight for the right to land Chinese coolie laborers in Mexico. The views of the intention of the Mexican Government to permit Chinese to land on its soil has just been received by consular officials in this city.

ADELE RHODES, SCHOOLGIRL WHO STRANGELY DISAPPEARED.

NO-STRIKE VOTE IS CONCLUSIVE

Official Declaration that New Jersey Trolley Men Will Not Go Out, a Big Majority Being Against It.

(Special to The Evening World.) NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 2.—It was announced today by the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees that there would be no strike for better wages and shorter hours. The announcement was based on the fact that three-fourths of the men in the recent balloting for or against going out, voted in the negative. The balloting was carried on yesterday afternoon and last night up to 10 o'clock and the association counted the votes today. Reports received from Essex, Hudson and Passaic counties were to the effect that the majority of the men employed on the trolley lines did not favor the strike.

Rozin Orr, the National Treasurer, who has been in Newark and who has attended the sessions of the union in Lyric Hall, received the reports as they came in and placed them in charge of President Conway.

The latter refused to state whether any one county was in favor of a strike and would not give out any more than the general result.

Great relief was felt in the city when the conclusion was made known, as a long siege of trouble was feared. Later in the day Mr. Orr and the members of the executive board of the Trolley Men's Union went to places of the Public Service Corporation and notified President McCarter that the men had voted against going out and that there would be no tie-up.

NEW STEAMER SAILS.

PRAYED ALL NIGHT FOR MISSING GIRL

Anxious Parents Kept a Lighted Candle in the Window as a Beacon of Hope During Their Long Vigil.

NO TRACE OF ADELE RHODES.

Started for School, Where She Had Met with Examination Failure and Dreaded Return, and Then Disappeared, Leaving No Trace.

Last night in the window of the little frame house at No. 323 Whitton street, Jersey City, a tall white candle flickered through the dark. It was placed there by a mother. After gathering her family together to pray for the return of her missing daughter she had designed it for a beacon of welcome to the young girl who disappeared on Tuesday last.

The pallid appeal of light burned itself out in a fruitless appeal to sixteen-year-old Adele Rhodes to return to her home. Adele Rhodes left her father's house on Tuesday morning, ostensibly to go to school. She had just 25 cents, which her mother had given her to buy books. She was in the habit of returning home for lunch, but when it did not appear her mother thought nothing of it, as she sometimes stayed at her grandmother's at the noon hour.

At 3.30 o'clock Mrs. Rhodes' youngest daughter returned from Public School No. 22, which both girls attended, and to her mother's inquiry for Adele replied that she had not seen her all day. The mother thought nothing of it, and not until her husband's return from business at 6.30 o'clock, and his inquiry for his eldest daughter did she become alarmed.

When dinner was over and Adele was still absent, her father visited the houses of two friends on lower Jersey City. Not finding her there he continued what soon developed into an agonized and fruitless search, until at 11 o'clock he visited Chief of Police Murphy and requested that an alarm be sent out.

Worried by School Failure.

When he returned to his home Mrs. Rhodes who, during his absence, had racked her brain to find some motive which might have led their petted daughter to leave them, informed him that Adele had worried over her failure last spring to pass the examination for admission to the Fifth School, and declared that she would rather die than return to her class.

Today Mrs. Rhodes repeated this statement to an Evening World reporter, who saw her at her home, and with tears in her eyes declared that she held the teacher of her daughter's class, Miss Eva Lott, directly responsible for her disappearance.

"Adele was always very nervous," she said, "and she had a nervous affection of the throat which caused her to gasp occasionally when she was speaking and made it very painful for her to recite.

Owing to this fact I always called on the teachers of Adele's class and explained her difficulty to them. With the exception of Miss Lott, who was her teacher last year, they were all very considerate and patient with her. But Miss Lott would call on Adele to recite then, because of her stammering speech, pass her over and give her a poor mark. The child would frequently come home crying. Adele had always stood high in her classes and I was consequently much surprised to find that Miss Lott had given her four 'C's'—a marking which means fail only, and which barred her from promotion at the end of the year.

Girl Dreaded to Return.

"When Adele learned this she said she would die rather than return to Miss Lott's class. I sympathized with her, but yesterday morning when she left the house to go to school she seemed quite resigned. I am sure, however, that her dread of going through again the experiences of last year determined her to go away and look for work.

"But what on the poor child do? She had only thirty-five cents in the world, so far as I know. We have visited the houses of all our acquaintances here and telegraphed to Ossining, N. Y., and to South Amboy, where we thought she might have gone to visit friends. But we can get no trace of her in any quarter. Adele had a nervous affection of the throat which caused her to gasp occasionally when she was speaking and made it very painful for her to recite.

her, standing with a grip in her hand, on the corner of Communipaw avenue the same day. She did take a grip with her and a few clothes.

"When she left she had on a navy blue serge shirt, ankle length, a blue shirt waist with white dots, a tan box coat and a blue felt hat trimmed with blue and green wings. She is about five feet four inches high and weighs 125 pounds. She has light brown hair, a good complexion and fine teeth. The catch in her voice is a marked peculiarity.

"She is a beautiful needlewoman and can do exquisite drawn work. She would probably seek some position where this accomplishment would be of use. Only last week when she showed me a table cover she had made she said, 'Mamma, I believe I could earn a living by this work.'

"My poor little girl was afraid to go back to the school. She was ashamed to recite before the other girls. If she will only come back to us, she need never see that school or teacher again. Her father is half crazy with worry and, as for me, I haven't slept or eaten scarcely since she disappeared."
